HOUSTON

As we enter our 120th year, Crowe & Dunlevy is an institution. As an institution, we focus not only on the legal excellence for which we are known, but also on giving back to our communities and our profession.

Our gifts have included and will continue to include significant investments of time and money by our lawyers and staff in various organizations, many serving as board members and volunteers.

We provide substantial pro bono representation and our firm has been active in diversity efforts, providing scholarships and externships and striving to foster diversity and social responsibility.

Approaching our 120th anniversary, we remain committed to the legal excellence and the gifts to our communities and our profession that made us an institution.

—Roger A. Stong, President and CEO

Community Involvement

Crowe & Dunlevy's tradition of giving back to the community supports a wide range of nonprofit organizations across Oklahoma and Texas. Our people provide time, treasure and talent to causes that need creative, solutions-oriented individuals to help accomplish a number of worthy missions.

“As a young Crowe attorney, I was advised by my mentors, Allen Evans and Bill Paul, of the importance of giving back to my community. In that firm tradition, I have been an annual donor since 1978 and a board member of the United Way of Central Oklahoma since 2008. Being involved with the United Way has enriched my life and allowed me to help others in need.”

—Cynda C. Ottaway

Each year, associates in our firm's Oklahoma City and Tulsa offices plan and implement a month-long fundraising campaign aimed at benefitting one of the United Way's partner organizations. By encouraging employees to give cash and material donations through engaging activities, Crowe & Dunlevy raises tens of thousands of dollars each year for the United Way. Even during a pandemic, there is no absence of willingness to answer the call to serve and provide for those who need help the most.

Pro Bono Work

“ We assist those in need who carry the burden of navigating murky legal processes and accessing necessary public services. I am personally proud of Crowe & Dunlevy’s robust and consistent commitment to pro bono work, for the betterment of our community as a whole.”

—Joshua D. Burns, Pro Bono Co-Coordinator

During the summer of 2021, Crowe & Dunlevy competed in a summer pro bono challenge hosted by the Oklahoma Access to Justice Commission. After submitting hours for pro bono work done on a daily basis year-round, Crowe & Dunlevy not only won the competition in the large firm category, but accounted for nearly 30% of the total statewide hours submitted.

(Many attorneys do not track pro bono hours worked, but the totals below reflect hours reported by our attorneys.)
